Over this past year, the business lines of IT Security and Corporate Security have partnered to design and launch a one-stop-shop security portal for the Department.

Based on feedback, we discovered that employees don't recognize or care about what IT security is versus physical security, versus personnel security. All they want to know is how to keep our information, people and assets safe and secure.

The website is centered on securing our workplace, technology and information and uses icons for access to each subject area. It took one year to get to the launch point and we are very happy with the results!
